Multiple sclerosis is a chronic degenerative disease of the Central Nervous System and is increasing in prevalence at an alarming 7% per annum. It is the most common neurological disease that affects young adults and 5% of all patients with MS experience the clinical onset of their disease prior to age 18 years.

The Trish Multiple Sclerosis Research Foundation is named after elite athlete Trish Langsford who passed away having spent over 4 years in a nursing home with end-stage MS. The Foundation is staffed by a committed team of volunteers ensuring every dollar raised is placed into research to pursue our goal of finding a cure or preventive strategy for this debilitating disease. Federal Member for Bradfield, Dr Brendan Nelson is the Patron of the Foundation.

The Foundation, which has formed an association with MS Research Australia, has raised over $1.7 million for research and is making a significant contribution to MS research in Australia.

Thanks in advance for your support!!
